

Hutchison Law Group Adds Devon White as Trademark Attorney

Raleigh, NC – Hutchison Law Group, a leading provider of strategic business and intellectual property counsel to the Southeast’s life science and technology communities, announced today that Devon White has joined the firm in its Intellectual Property practice group.

White’s practice will focus on trademark prosecution and enforcement, including representation before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board.

“We are very pleased to welcome Devon to the firm. She will be a valuable asset to our Intellectual Property practice and will help expand our established Trademark practice, especially in the enforcement area,” said Hutchison Law Group Member Randy Whitmeyer.

White earned her J.D., cum laude, in 2002 from North Carolina Central University, where she is now an adjunct law professor teaching Intellectual Property Law. White serves as Vice President of the Board of Directors of the North Carolina Center for Voter Education, and as a member of the North Carolina Bar Association Committee on Women in the Profession. Additionally, she has served on the North Carolina Central University School of Law Board of Visitors and as President of the 14th Judicial District Bar and the Durham County Bar Association, and has managed and served on appellate judicial election committees.

Additional details and contact information for Devon White can be found at <http://bit.ly/devon-white>.

About Hutchison Law Group

Hutchison Law Group, founded in 1996, represents many of the premier technology and life science companies in the Southeast. The firm provides venture capital financing advice, merger and acquisition counsel, licensing assistance, securities law advice and intellectual property protection, employment law advice and counseling, and other business legal services to a wide variety of businesses at all stages of development. hutchlaw.com www.prsurvival.com

About the Author

ajdsf

asdf

asdf

Source: <http://www.prsurvival.com>